A letter written from Laugharne, on the 17th July, 1827, by Wm. Perrott, and addressed to Mr. Starbuck, Milford, Pembrokeshire." is amongst those at Neath. It gives us a view of the state of the Burial Ground at that time:--

"In confidence that you will kindly excuse this liberty I have taken to acquaint you of a circumstance respecting the Burial ground which belongs to your Society. Many years past the ground was made over to the Society by James Perrott, then of this town, also the ground where the Meeting-house now is; the said James Perrott, also some others, are interred in the burial ground. The occupier of the meadow wherein it is, has plowed it up, and planted potatoes therein, and report says that it's intended to cut the timber there also. As James Perrott was brother to my grandfather, it would be of great satisfaction to me to see it decently kept for the use it was intended. When I occupied the 'Blue Boar Inn' at St. Clears, I mentioned the circumstance to Mr. Rock, of Milford, and some time after he informed me that he had made enquiries, and that my relative was a very worthy member of their Society, and if anyone laid their finger on it to 'inger' it, if I would let him know he would take it up most seriously."

This letter, with its great monogram seal in red wax, was sent to Bevington Gibbings, who at once took action, and wrote to Wm. Perrott:--

"As some of thy ancestors were interred in the Burial Ground belonging to our Society at Laugharne, I am commissioned to write on its behalf to request that though wilt be kind enough to have an oversight respecting the said Burial Ground, that it may be kept in good order, and the trees properly preserved."

He also asks Perrott to collect the small rent due for it from the Rowland Edwardes, as well as to apply to George Wilkins for balance due from him for rent of "the late Meeting-house and garden up to the time of our selling those premises."

Geo. Eyre Evans.

General Notes: Member Profile, 2016. Family Notes, 33(June):

"The 1830 edition of Pigot's Dictionary that George Perrott of Llanelli was running the Ship public house at this time, but by 1835 he is recorded working as a dock master at the Railroad Company's dock.

The 1841 census shows the couple living with children William (17), Walter (14), Harriet (11), and Richard (6) in Llanelli, with George's occupation recorded as dock master. By 1851, only Harriet and Richard were still living with their parents.

George died in October 1858 - the Cardiff Times reported his death as follows: 'On the 12th inst., at Cambrian-place, Llanelly, aged 80, Mr. George Perrott, for many years dock-master. This much-respected old gentleman was the father of twenty-six sons and five daughters. He was married twice, and during the French invasion and landing in Fishguard, in 1797, he served in the cavalry under Lord Cawdor.' "

An old family bible in the possession of the Durban, South Africa, branch of the family has clarified lots of the relationships.

General Notes: Member Profile, 2016. Family Notes, 33(June):

"His Mate's Certificate of Service, issued in 1851, states that he had been employed as a boy seaman and mate in the British Merchant Service for a period of nine years, meaning he would have started in this work around the age of sixteen. When the 1851 census was taken, Jane was living in her parents' household, with Walter apparently away at sea.

At the time of the 1861 census, Walter was at sea on board the John & Ann of which he was master, however he is also recorded living with Jane and their daughters Mary Ann (10), Sarah Jane (7), Harriet Justina (5) and Emma (3) in Llanelli. A son- Walter George-- had been born the previous year and died in infancy. Later additions to the family, then living in Minor Street, were Emily Jane (Born 1861, died 1911 in Burry Port) and Robert Rees (born 1866, died 1938 in Port Elizabeth, South Africa).

Following Jane's death in 1868, Walter remarried in 1870 to Mary Ann Harding (nee Burgess), widow of William, who had two daughters. The 1871 census has Sarah Jane, Jessie (Harriett Justina) and Emily Jane living in Swansea with their step-sister Sara Harding, aged 18, who describe's herself as a 'captain's daughter'.

Younger brother was also living in Swansea in 1871 with his aunt and uncle, Henry and Christina Mills. Their father Walter was presumably away at sea."
